Whitney Jewelry

Since the early 1970's Whitney Jewelry has been created by combining the traditional metalsmithing technique of fabrication with polymer clay as a way to add color and surface design to produce well crafted but very affordable varieties of jewelry.

Their studio is a step back into the preindustrial age, as they only use hand tools with the exceptions of the finishing equipment. Non-toxic chemicals salt and vinegar are used to clean the surface of the metal.

The love for the plasticity of metal and the joy of creating it by hand is their daily inspiration.
